COTTON FROCKS FOR ALL-WINTER WEAR TO BE THE FASHION IN PARIS, WRITES MAYBELLE MORTMER

PARIS, Aug. 5.—There is nothing more omnipresent in the costume of the late summer than the fancy bag, but it looks as if this season will see its final gasp. For we are told that one of the things which Dame Fashion is sure to introduce this fall is the pocket on the skirt!

However, there is nothing more coquettish than the universal handbag of lace, silk or embroidery that is being carried now. If you have a "bead bag" that has come down to you from great grandmother, be sure to use it, for those old-fashioned bags, over the making of which our ancestors ruined their eyes, is most popular.

The little gown in the picture is one of those stunning frocks which look so simple and cost so much. It is of white silk voile with a broad band of embroidered cluny lace around the bottom. The kimono waist is made wholly of the embroidered lace. The belt and bag are of green and white striped satin and the hat is of white panama with white chiffon trimmings and "a green carnation" at the very edge of the brim.

Of the other bags shown the heavy crocheted lace one can be carried with diaphanous summer frocks.

It looks as though the wash gowns will be worn as long as possible. I find that every year more women are wearing cotton frocks in the house all winter.

Already the wily French manufacturer has arrived at this fact and you find cotton materials that are as expensive as silk and much more beautiful being made in France. I am told, too, that the American cotton mills are making higher priced materials.

Out of all this frivolous fashion news the economical girl can get much comfort this fall from the fact that she can wear her summer gowns all through the winter and be in the very latest style!

Tips for Sunday Dinner.
Here are Kansas domestic science tips for Sunday dinners:

"Any kinds of meat, veal loaf, boiled ham, pressed chicken and some roasts are as good, sometimes better, when cold than hot. They could be prepared Saturday and ready to serve Sunday. Make a little salad to go with the meat. Don't use vegetables that take a long time to prepare for the Sunday dinner. Use them some other day. Don't take the trouble to make a pie or pudding or a cake Sunday morning. There are hundreds of fine desserts that are better cold and can be prepared Saturday and be in fine condition for Sunday dinner."

(TALK NO. 158.)

"Easier" not "Better."

There is a certain class of cases who only need glasses to rest the eyes. They see as well and as far as anyone. When they read for any length of time, however, their eyes pain them. They feel like stopping and rubbing them. In many cases if it is kept up for any length of time they have headache. These eyes need glasses just as much as eyes which do not see well. They need to have the strain removed and some of the over work relieved. They do not need to see better but they do need to see easier. They do not need glasses to magnify but to relieve effort. I make a specialty of these cases. I have permanently cured hundreds of cases of headache that medicine would not benefit. I shall be glad to see you in my office at any time. If your eyes tire or if you have headaches I will tell you honestly whether lenses will relieve you. I do not charge for consultation.

KANSAS HUSBANDS SHOULD WORRY

Big Sunday Dinners Are to Be Abandoned By Western Housewives.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 5.—The custom and the physical requirement that a man must rest at least one day in seven has brought about a campaign in Kansas against the big Sunday dinners so long the delight of the average man. The domestic science teachers of the schools have enlisted the aid of the domestic science students throughout the state, and the big Sunday dinner is going the way of the hard biscuit and the underdone meat in the Kansas homes.

The campaign was started a year ago at the University of Kansas, but it now has the support of every high school and college with domestic science courses.

The campaign is based on two propositions:

Why not give the housewife a little rest?

Why not rest the inner man also?

A fine chicken dinner with all the "trimmings" is something to conjure with on Sunday. The man of the home has crawled out of bed late, loafed around all morning, reading the papers, talking with the neighbors and resting. Maybe he went to church. But all that time when he was to church or loafing about the house some one was getting that meal ready.

Starts Dinner About Friday.

The housewife had started planning the meal about Friday. While the family was eating breakfast, the housewife already had started the dinner by getting the foods prepared for cooking and she worked like a Trojan up to about seven minutes of church time and then hustled into her silk dress. She returns from church to the hot, stuffy kitchen and works for an hour or two getting the meal actually ready to eat. On Sunday she works as hard, or harder, than any other day of the week except washday.

After eating that fine meal, an hour or two after the regular noonday meal times, Mr. Man goes over to the couch or into the hammock and takes a nap of about an hour, or maybe reads the Sunday papers or the magazines, and along about the middle of the afternoon his wife and the girls come in from washing the dishes and pots and pans necessary in the preparation of the big Sunday dinner.
